ABSTRACT

Annisa Avianti Role Of Child Labour In The Small Industries of Sandals For Household Income And Their Welfare (Case: Village Parakan, Ciomas Subdistrict, Bogor Regency, West Java). Supervised by Martua Sihaloho

Child labour is one of social phenomenon that its existence is still ongoing even be complex. Child labor is a matter that can not be circumvented in the developing countries including Indonesia. Children who are working have role for contributing to family income, either directly or indirectly. The entry of children into the world of work can also have an impact for the welfare of the child. This case occurred in Village Parakan, Ciomas Subdistrict, Bogor Regency, West Java. The aims of this research are to know the factors that led to the emergence child labor and the impact of the workings of the child to their household income and children’s welfare child.

Keywords: child welfare, child labor, household income.